October 1, 2015

(Las Vegas, NV – November 6, 2015) Anthony J. Sbarra, Jr., a products liability and civil litigation shareholder at Hermes, Netburn, O'Connor & Spearing, is speaking at the annual DRI Asbestos Medicine Seminar. Tony will be presenting "Pulling Back the Curtain: Are Those Independent or Exclusive Organizations Really Independent or Exclusive?", a compelling program that provides revelations about supposed 'independent' organizations such as the Collegium Ramazzini, the Brigham and Women's Hospital International Mesothelioma Program and the Asbestos Disease Awareness Organization. Tony's program will take place at 3:30pm on Friday, November 6th at the Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas in Nevada.

In his practice, Tony Sbarra defends product manufacturers, insurers and others in complex product liability, toxic tort, asbestos, bad faith/consumer protection, automobile and general liability matters. Tony has tried to verdict over thirty Superior Court cases and has arbitrated and mediated hundreds of others.

Hermes Netburn O'Connor & Spearing is proud to be an event sponsor for this two-day event, which is historically one of DRI's most highly attended seminars. The DRI Annual Asbestos Medicine seminar runs on November 5 & 6th, 2015.

ABOUT HERMES, NETBURN, O'CONNOR & SPEARING, P.C.

Hermes, Netburn, O'Connor & Spearing, P.C. is a Martindale-Hubbell AV-rated boutique firm located in the heart of Boston, where attorneys practice at the top of their fields. We staff our matters leanly, believing that talent, experience and efficiency are more effective than a large, unwieldy team even on the biggest cases. In this way, every attorney takes ownership of the entire matter, ideas are communicated and strategy developed promptly, and our clients can be sure that our fees reflect the quality of services they receive. We encourage you to learn more about the firm by exploring the website.
